

Pravda Says Pact With Japanese Is To Open New Era

Paper Reports Recent Russian Treaty With Tokyo Is Not Directed at Germany

Raps Washington
London, Washington Are Viewed as Mixed Up by Accord

Moscow, April 19 (AP)—Pravda, organ of the Communist party, said today the Soviet Union made a decision not to join the Axis last November, but asserted Russia's new neutrality pact with Japan was not directed against Germany. Discussing the implications of the Japanese agreement, in a lead article, Pravda said the pact "creates a solid foundation for development of friendly relations between the two states."

"The Soviet-Japanese pact provides that if one of the signatories is the object of military action on the part of one or several powers, the other will remain neutral."

Pravda declared the pact with Japan "mixed up the cards of London and Washington politicians."

Calling the agreement an instrument of peace, the party organ said, "this evidence does not please foreign political circles which aim not to restrict, but to expand the atmosphere of war and mainly to involve the Soviet Union in its orbit."

"Typical of this point of view are the comments of some organs of the British and American press."

Pravda asserted that study of the pact with Japan started 10 years ago and was revived after Russia decided not to sign up with the Axis. No reason was given for Russia's decision not to join the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo line.

"This historic information discloses the entire ridiculousness of the suppositions of commentators that the Soviet-Japanese pact was directed against Germany, and also the other supposition that the pact was concluded under German pressure," the article said.

The article quoted reports that the United States has sought friendly relations with Russia, hoping that strained Soviet-Japanese relations would deter Japan from attacking Britain's Singapore base.

"Purpose of Deceiving"
"Thus, we see that these 'friendly gestures' with regard to the Soviet Union had the purpose of deceiving American public opinion," said Pravda. "As to the alleged 'bad conduct' of the Soviet Union, it is known that by this British commentators mean the lack of desire of the Soviet Union to fight for foreign interests."

The newspaper singled out an article by Walter Lippmann which, it said, advanced the theory that the Soviet air force would threaten Japan while the Red Army menaced Japanese land forces in Manchuria.

In its review of the Soviet-Japanese agreement, Pravda disclosed in detail for the first time the history of the negotiations leading to its signing April 13 by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Vyacheslav Molotov.

The newspaper said Japan refused the original Soviet proposal for a non-aggression pact 10 years ago. The matter was not again raised until July, 1940, when Shigenori Togo, Japanese ambassador to Moscow, proposed a neutrality agreement. The Soviet government approved in principle, but its conclusion was delayed by negotiations on specific terms.

In October, 1940, the new Japanese ambassador, Yoshitsugu Takeda, proposed a non-aggression pact patterned after the Soviet-German treaty of 1939. Pravda said, however, the Soviet government replied that it preferred a bilateral neutrality agreement similar to the Soviet-German pact signed in 1926, and the new treaty followed this pattern.

Akron Janitor, 58, Is Held in Death Of Music Teacher

Police Say Confession Tells How He Burned Body in Furnace After Fatal Scuffle

Akron, O., April 19 (AP)—Police said today the 58-year-old janitor of North Hill Methodist Church had confessed incinerating the body of Ruth Zwicker, 24-year-old music teacher, but contended she died accidentally in a scuffle after he sought a kiss.

Detective Inspector Verne Cross attributed the confession to Albert B. Lukens, father of three grown children. Cross said Lukens signed a statement relating: "I asked her for a kiss and she struck my face. I grabbed her right arm and in the scuffle she fell, striking her head against the piano bench."

"Then I dragged her down the steps and into the coal bin. About 6 o'clock Easter morning I returned to the church and built a fire in the boiler. I threw her and the music sheets into the boiler."

Miss Zwicker had been missing since she went to the church last Saturday morning to practice piano. Detectives, acting on a hunch, sifted ashes under the boiler grates and found the remains which the young woman's father identified through dental work.

Prosecutor Alva Russell said he would bring a murder charge against the janitor.

Cross said Lukens in his statement related he once clubbed to death a Cincinnati woman, and served time in Mansfield, O., reformatory.

Coal Strike Principals Deadlocked

Southern Operators Ask Conference Be Held in Washington, Not New York

Demands Made
General Motors Problem With U.A.W. in Hands of Negotiators

(By The Associated Press)
Southern soft coal operators and the C. I. O. United Mine Workers Union remained at odds today on a wage dispute which has kept some 400,000 miners idle since April 1. As a fuel shortage cooled furnaces in some steel centers, the southern bituminous field operators replied to a union call to meet in New York by asking for a conference in Washington instead.

Northern operators in the eight-state Appalachian soft coal area have agreed to the miners' principal request—for a $7 a day wage, and have gone along with the U. M. W. in their desire for elimination of the wage differential. The southern miners have been getting $5.60 daily and the northerners $6.

But John L. Lewis, chief of the mine workers, has opposed sending any of the miners back to the pits until all of them go.

Washington coal circles heard a report that rationing of the fuel might become necessary.

Trouble at Rouge Plants
Reports of trouble inside the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company brought state police to the scene last night. A union sound truck announced the trouble was limited to foundry workers and that there was no strike. All was quiet at midnight and there was no official clarification.

In Detroit also there were threats of a strike at plants of the General Motors Corporation. Negotiators sought to settle a dispute between the company and the U. A. W., which has filed a five-day notice of intention to walk out. The union demands that the firm approve a shop steward system and changes in the powers of the umpire who acts in labor-management affairs. The U. A. W. also asks wage increases of 10 cents an hour.

Called Only Hope
A labor board ordered for a collective bargaining agency election was described by a federal conciliator as the only hope for settlement of a dispute between the C. I. O. and the A. F. L. at the Buffalo, N. Y., plant of the American Car and Foundry Company which has held up production of shells for England. The firm employs 1,400 there.

In Pittsburgh 32 C. I. O. pickets defied an injunction issued in connection with a strike at the West Penn Hospital. The pickets, including David Kanes, district president of the State County and Municipal Workers' Union, were arrested. The strike, affecting 350 kitchen, maintenance and other service workers, was called to enforce a demand for a $45 minimum monthly wage instead of the present $38.

Germans Claim Capture of Larisa, Say Swastika Flies Over Mount Olympus; British Deny Allied Line Has Broken

Hitler Might Celebrate 52nd Birthday With Greek-Axis Armistice, Berlin Says

Suggestion Is Made Cautiously; Officials Reject Anglo-Threat of Rome Raids

Berlin, April 19 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's 52nd birthday tomorrow may also be the date for the Greek-Axis armistice, German political circles declared today.

Naturally officialdom was too careful to say anything so positive, but the following straws indicated which way the wind blows:

The German army's break through the Thracian mountain passes was announced. This, according to persons versed in military affairs, means the German army can now use Panzer units for the fight against opposing forces in the plains around Larisa—and German Panzers are believed here to be invincible.

The British threat to bomb Rome in case Athens or Cairo were bombed was angrily rejected. Officials said Germany has no intention of bombing a cultural center like Athens, nor is Cairo on the bombing list.

It became known that the highest military authorities gave the strictest orders to spare not only Athens but all other Greek cultural centers.

Yesterday, authorized sources stated significantly that Greek war prisoners would be treated like Norwegian or Dutch prisoners. Thus it was indicated Germany has no such thought of vengeance against Greece as she has against Serbia.

By letting the world and thereby Greece know of this intended differential treatment, apparently an effort was made to hold out an olive branch to Greece.

Nazis Blame British

Responsibility for the death of Greek Premier Korizis was definitely laid by German authorities at England's feet.

"Whether he was murdered or whether his demise was caused some other way," they said, "doubtlessly he was driven to death by the British."

"Apparently he was not ready to fulfill all British demands, such as placing the Greek fleet at the disposal of the English for withdrawing their troops and suggesting that the Greek royal family and Greek army also flee to Egypt."

Authorized sources emphasized that Korizis' death in any case showed a rift between the Greeks and the British and "created a new situation for every Greek patriot."

Putting all these hints together it was not difficult for observers to gather that Germans expect decisive developments in Greece soon.

Mystery still surrounded movements of Franz von Papen, ambassador to Turkey. Rome reports said the Greek government had used him as an intermediary for an armistice request, but the report could not be confirmed in Berlin.

Nor were informed quarters ready to admit that Kostas Kotizias, who was offered the post of (Continued on Page 12)

'France Forever' Group Organizes To Help de Gaulle

Former French Soldier Is Speaker at Meeting in Woodstock; Tells How Nation Suffered

Steps were taken last night toward organization of a permanent chapter of the "France Forever Movement" at a meeting of a group of admirers of the French held at the home of Miss Alice Henderson and Miss Anita Smith in Woodstock.

The group of nearly 100 heard a talk by Jean Henri Steck, a member of the "France Forever Movement," who was captured by the Germans while serving in the French army and escaped back to unoccupied France before coming to America last January.

The speaker recounted salient incidents which brought the fall of his country and as an example of the hopelessness of their situation described the experiences of his own regiment sent to face the German mechanized army with rifles dated 1872.

"What was there for us to do?" he asked the audience. "The French soldiers were brave but their fight was hopeless."

An estimated 98 per cent of the people of France, said M. Steck, are hoping that Great Britain will win and most of all of them are listeners to accounts of the war as broadcast from British radio stations.

The purpose of the meeting was explained at the outset by Philip Buttrick. The "France Forever" movement, he said, was organized after the collapse of France, to keep alive the spirit of "Liberte, Egalite and Fraternite," in Frenchmen all over the world.

The American France Forever movement was chartered in Pennsylvania and has spread to every state in the Union and has its headquarters at Rockefeller Center in New York.

Tromsø Family Sails Westward to Be Free

San Pedro, Calif., April 19 (AP)—Grimy but proudly free, a family of eight Norwegians who fled Tromsø just before the German invasion, provisioned their 70-foot trawler today after a 25,000 mile sail to new fishing grounds off British Columbia. Capt. Ottar Novik said, "when the war is over we sail back to Norway."

The family sailed to Newfoundland, found the fishing grounds crowded, then kept on to New York. Havana, the Panama Canal and San Pedro.

Asked why he undertook the dangerous voyage in his small boat, Capt. Novik pointed to the Norwegian flag on his mast: "That's why."

Emil Ganso Dies; Was Noted Artist

Former Woodstock Man Dies in Iowa Where He Was Teaching

Emil Ganso, 46, internationally known artist and lithographer who lived for many years at Woodstock from where he earned his earliest recognition, died yesterday at Iowa City, Ia., according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Ganso went to Iowa last fall where with another artist he took up the work of teaching once carried on by Grant Wood, one of America's outstanding artists.

The former Woodstock artist was known as "the baker who became an artist," and after he achieved his ambition he was known among artists throughout the nation for his technical knowledge of the several media in which he worked.

Mr. Ganso was born in Germany and came to America when he was still in his early youth. He worked for several years as a baker in New York and in his spare time worked and studied to become an artist.

Policy Opponents Work Out Proposal On Use of Convoys

Alternative Would Have Congress Empowered in Matter; Tobey Is Author of Plan

Washington, April 19 (AP)—Some Senate opponents of administration foreign policy, conceding that they might fail to enact a strict prohibition against convoys, worked out an alternative restriction today under which convoys could be ordered only with approval of Congress.

A resolution forbidding convoys is scheduled for action by the Senate foreign relations committee April 30, and administration leaders say they have ample strength to shelve the measure.

Senator Tobey (R-N. H.), author of the proposal, told the Senate yesterday he had information from four unnamed persons that American naval vessels already were engaged in convoy work. Democratic leader Barkley (Ky.) replied he had "unequivocal and emphatic" assurances from Secretary Knox and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, that convoys had not been used and that no orders for them had been issued.

Senator Nye (R-N. D.) was expected to introduce a new resolution requiring congressional approval before convoys could be ordered, and to suggest that it be considered as a compromise if the foreign relations committee shelves the Tobey resolution.

In another field of foreign policy, Nye criticized the administration for its pledges of assistance to Yugoslavia.

"One way," he said, "this country will be held up in the light of having encouraged these little countries to stand up one after another and commit suicide by promising help that we couldn't possibly furnish."

Bulgarians Reported Streaming Into Thrace And Other Regions Near Aegean

Korizis Dies

Greek Premier Dies in Athens; Suicide Is Hinted

(By The Associated Press)
The German high command today claimed the capture of Larisa, 40 miles south of Mount Olympus and said the swastika had been raised on the mountain itself.

But the British army headquarters in Athens asserted the heavy Nazi attack had failed to penetrate the British-Greek line at any point.

Greece had a cabinet crisis as a result of the unexpected death of Premier Alexandros Korizis, successor to Gen. John Metaxas who died January 29. There were reports that King George II planned the formation of a military government and it was understood the monarch himself had assumed wartime control as head of the council of ministers.

Informed sources said the king earlier had asked Kostas Kotizias, former military governor of Athens, to form a cabinet but that he had failed to do so.

The British threat to bomb Rome in case Athens or Cairo were attacked from the air was angrily rejected by Berlin, officials said Germany had no intention of bombing either city.

Von Papen Is Mystery

There was still a feeling of mystery about the movements of Franz von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Turkey. Reports from Rome said the Greeks had used him as an intermediary for an armistice request, but this could not be confirmed in Berlin.

Political observers in Berlin were also of the opinion that Turkey may now be counted in the Axis column and that the country will go beyond benevolent neutrality.

The German high command said Nazi forces had sunk 19,000 tons of shipping around Britain in a few hours.

The official German wireless, heard in New York, said Bulgarian troops last night began streaming into western Thrace and Macedonia and the Morava area of eastern Serbia. This action was in line with Bulgaria's old ambition to have a corridor to the Aegean.

"The situation is serious in view of increasing German reinforcements from Yugoslavia," the Greek press ministry acknowledged.

Korizis, 56-year-old banker, served only 80 days after taking over the office at the death of Premier General John Metaxas.

Korizis' death late yesterday afternoon was not announced to his countrymen until late last night, and then the cause was not disclosed.

Stefani, Italian news agency, carried a dispatch from Istanbul, Turkey, which intimated the death was not from "natural causes," and hinted Korizis took his own life.

The Italians predicted their forces soon would recapture the southern Albanian port they named Porta Edda for Premier Mussolini's daughter, and said they were approaching Ioannina, capital of Epirus in northwestern Greece.

22 Persons Killed

London, April 19 (AP)—Reuters, British news agency, reported today 22 persons were killed and 200 injured in rioting of Hindus and Moslems at Ahmedabad, 300 miles north of Bombay, India. Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Genius
Fairbanks, Ind. — Citizens of this little town, weary of having it confused with cities in four other states and Alaska, had an idea for making it distinctive but Postmaster General Walker turned thumbs down on the proposal. They wanted to make the name Fairbanks, Jr.

The Weaker Sex
Vincennes, Ind. — Five perishing and embarrassed men struggled to carry a piano into Mrs. Evaline Mc Giffin's farm home. Two excited neighbor women had run out of the house with it when a nearby barn caught fire.

Hale and Hearty
Long Beach, Calif. — Army physicians rejected him as physically unfit for the Civil War. In 1869 he was given only one year to live. Eaton J. Merchant has just celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary.

Enlightening
Rock Island, Ill. — A group of Boy Scouts at their camp for the first time this spring watched with apparent amusement as Boy Scout Executive L. C. Jameson prepared to light the first fire. Boy Scouts must be able to start a fire with two matches, but Jameson used a score with no results. Then he discovered that the "paper" he was using was sheet asbestos.

Trolley Tremors
Milwaukee, Wis. — Street cars cause too much vibration in some parts of town. Alderman John Kaluba blamed before the city council's utility committee. He cited a recent instance when, so he said, vibrations caused by a street car jolted the denture plate out of the mouth of a woman choir member at a south side church.

Kiwanis Ladies' Night Speaker

L. F. LIVINGSTON

L. F. Livingston, who is manager of the agricultural extension division of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., is scheduled to appear on the program for Kiwanis ladies' night and 20th anniversary celebration Thursday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. He will tell about the possibilities in farm crops as raw material sources for the factories of the nation. He believes that there is promise of bigger farm income than the agricultural community has ever known through development of new crops and new uses for old ones. Mr. Livingston will display some 30 examples of products made from agricultural raw materials and results of recent research work.

Mendelssohn Club Presents Two Artists At Annual Concert

The annual spring concert of the Mendelssohn Club given Friday evening in the high school auditorium featured Jean Watson, Canadian contralto as the club's guest star with Pierre Henrotte, violinist, as assisting artists.

Miss Watson sang three groups of songs and Mr. Henrotte played one group of violin numbers. Each appeared with the chorus in "Seraphic Song" by Rubenstein in which Miss Watson sang the soprano solo and Mr. Henrotte played the obbligato.

Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross accompanied both artists. Usually he has appeared as soloist with the club but this year he waived that honor in behalf of his two colleagues.

Miss Watson's self assurance and her polished performance won her a great ovation from the audience that filled the high school to capacity. Her powerful and rich tones, the wide range and command of her styles were revealed particularly in "O Don Fatale" by Verdi with which she opened her part of the program; "Zueignung" by Strauss, "Think of Me" by Perrenot, and "The Last Song" by Rogers.

Her other numbers included "Verborgeneheit" by Wolf; "What is a Song" by Curran and "Love's Philosophy" by Quilter. Miss Watson was extremely gracious and generous with her encores was most delightful of which was "Annie Laurie."

Mr. Henrotte was in his usual good form and his ever communicative interpretations won for him new followers who had not had the privilege of hearing him on previous Kingston programs.

The Mendelssohn Club, under Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh's exacting direction sang with precision and enjoyment. An improvement was noted over last year in a better balance in the tenor section.

Most appealing of the chorus selections were the "Daughters of Time" by Harvey Gaul, and "Seraphic Song" by Rubenstein. The concert opened with a lively singing of "The Hunter and His Career" which the club repeated as an encore at the end of the first group.

Other numbers were "Chorus of Camel Drivers"; "Song of the Golden Calf"; from "Faust," and the lighter numbers usually found in a glee club repertoire. Vernon S. Miller was the incidental soloist in "Daughters of Time" and "Mirage" both by Gaul. Mr. Miller also conducted the club in "Ode to Music" the traditional opening song of Mendelssohn concerts.

Mr. Henrotte's numbers, played in his usual accomplished manner were "Romance" by Svendsen; "Child's Dream" by Ysaye and "Intermezzo" by Provoost.

Samuel Scudder, Jr., club accompanist, gave impressive accompaniments to the club numbers. Paul Barnum assisted Mr. Scudder in a four hand accompaniment to the two Gaul numbers.

Following the concert the club members and their friends held their annual supper and dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel at which Miss Watson, Mr. Henrotte and Dr. Spross were guests of honor. At the request of the group they presented several solos during the evening.

Lecture on Cancer Control

Dr. Louis Kress, director of the cancer control department of the state department of health will lecture on cancer control at the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday, April 22, at 8:30 o'clock. The public is invited. The lecture is under the auspices of the Ulster County Chapter of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the control of Cancer which is having its annual membership drive this month.

Garden Members Buy Seeds

The Little Gardens Club met Friday at the home of Mrs. Harry Pitts, 168 Wall street. A donation of money was made by the club to "American Seeds for British Soil" to aid in buying seeds for Britain's gardens. The subject of the afternoon was "Soil Science" presented by Mrs. Prescott Clapp.

Symphony Society Announces Concert

The Ulster County Symphony Society, conducted by George Hagstrom, announces its second concert for a Kingston audience at the high school auditorium on the evening of May 5. Tickets may now be obtained at Rossi's Music Shop, Arace Brothers, and Goldman's Style Shop, or from Mrs. Harriet L. See, telephone 1367.

The orchestra has been rehearsing an interesting program. Prominent will be the popular and extraordinary Tchaikovsky's "Fifth Symphony." This symphony is most appropriate for such a time, for it may be interpreted as man's struggle for the ideals of peace on earth and good will to men.

There will be no rehearsal of the orchestra on this Sunday afternoon as the dress rehearsal for the Poughkeepsie concert will be held at that time at the high school in Poughkeepsie.

Women's Club Luncheon

The annual spring luncheon and bridge of the Women's Club of the Y. W. C. A. will be held at the association building Thursday at 1 o'clock. The luncheon is in charge of Mrs. Chester B. Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

May Either of Engaged Couple Have Another "Date"? No is Safe Answer, But There Are Exceptions.

No is the answer of safety to the question, "Is it right for either the man or the girl who are engaged to each other to go out to dances or to the theatre or to parties with other 'dates'?"

But in all fairness, let me go further by saying that on special occasions the answer could very well be yes. If, for example, either one of them is away for a long time, or lives at a distance from the other, then neither one should be expected to spend every evening alone at home. But even so, to go repeatedly alone—he with a girl, or she with a man—or to seem to be interested in any other person would be unfair to all three. To go out now and then with one or another group of friends and to avoid showing conspicuous interest in any one person would be quite all right.

Thank-you Notes for Baby Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: Is one supposed to write thank-you notes for all presents to a new baby, or may some people be thanked on the telephone or when I see them? With a new baby in the house I'm sure it will be no easy matter to find time to write thank-you notes if it isn't absolutely necessary.

Answer: Most of those who give you presents will bring them when they come to see the baby—and you! And you thank them then. But anyone who sends you a present should be thanked as soon as you are able to write notes; or if you have a telephone by your bed, you can thank them this way. Or if you don't feel like talking or writing—particularly to those who are not very intimate friends—a member of your family or your nurse (if you have a "special" one and she has time) may properly write notes of thanks for you.

Helping Visitors on with Their Coats

Dear Mrs. Post: I believe it is considered bad form for a girl to help a man on with his coat. If this is true, it is also bad form for a girl to help another woman on with her coat? What if the girl is a maid?

Answer: No, it is all right for one woman to help another woman. Even a man who is elderly and perhaps rheumatic or otherwise in need of assistance may be helped. But otherwise a woman should not attempt to help him. In fact, I think a man usually is disconcerted to have her try. A maid who is on duty at the door always holds the coats of ladies and gentlemen both—as a matter of course.

The Ring Bearer and His Pillow

Dear Mrs. Post: What does the little boy who is ring bearer in my wedding do with the little pillow after the best man has unfurled the ring and taken it off? There seems to be no further reason for the pillow and I wonder if it is to be taken away from him.

Answer: Up the aisle he carries the pillow so that the top of it is horizontal. At the altar, he still holds the pillow, something the way a woman holds a muff, with his arms down at a relaxed and comfortable position. The point is, he should hold it with both hands and not stuff it under his arm or hold it by one corner and possibly swing it—all of these very likely to be the impulses of a very small boy.

April Designated As Cancer Control Month in Kingston

Mayor C. J. Heiselman has issued the following proclamation designating this month as "Cancer Control Month" in this city.

"Whereas, the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, a volunteer health organization, is now engaged in its fifth nationwide campaign to save lives from cancer;

"Whereas, the disease last year destroyed more than 153,000 persons in the nation and 82 in this community;

"Whereas, experts agree that at our present level of achievement we should have saved between one-third and one-half of those who died, through early diagnosis and prompt, proper treatment;

"Whereas, it is essential that men and women learn the symptoms that may indicate the presence of cancer and recognize the importance of periodic physical examinations;

"Therefore, I, Conrad J. Heiselman, mayor of the City of King-

Fourteen Members To Compete in State Final Voice Test

The 85 mixed voices of the Kingston High School A Cappella Choir which has already brought honors to its sponsor and its director, Leonard H. Stine, will be heard in a concert Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium in the program with which it hopes to win additional honors again this year.

Included in the membership of the choir are 14 young singers who will compete in the state finals at Poughkeepsie the week-end of April 25-26. Some will be heard in quartet work and others will be heard as soloists at the state finals.

Three of the 14 are eligible for the state finals by virtue of being rated one's at the contest last year. These are Harry Zellmer, baritone; Alma Burger, soprano, and Robert Messenger, baritone. The other 11 were chosen at district contests held at Oneonta and Hudson earlier this spring.

Kingston has the distinction of having the largest number of entrants to be chosen for the state finals. Other cities larger than Kingston have fewer number contesting.

Tuesday night's concert will be the first local appearance of the A Cappella choir. It will also be the initiation of the new maroon and white robes recently purchased for the choir.

In the top row of pictures are Elaine Rich, soprano; Joan Craig, soprano; Leonard H. Stine, director; Helen Smith, soprano, and Jessie Kapreilian, soprano.

Second row, Alma Burger, soprano; Marie Lund, mezzo-soprano; Roger Goodsell, baritone; Shirley Riehl, contralto, and Howard R. St. John, Jr., bass.

Third row, Robert Breithaupt, tenor; Farran Gates, baritone; Robert Messenger, baritone; James Farrell, tenor, and Harry Zellmer, baritone.

Public Hearing Scheduled Monday on Meters

Monday evening at 8 o'clock the traffic control committee of the Common Council will hold a public hearing in the matter of the proposed installation of parking meters in the uptown business section, as requested by the Uptown Business Men's Association. There is opposition to the installation of the meters on North Front street.

Members of the council committee are urging all automobile owners in the city to attend the hearing Monday night and express their opinion as to whether they favor meters or not.

Recently 15 of the business men of North Front street filed a petition opposing the installation of meters on that

BY MARGARET WILDMAN

YESTERDAY: The night Eileen Gardner graduated from the University her life had seemed pretty simple to her, probably including Jordan Estill as husband. But that night a stranger literally caught her in his strong arms; now she has decided to take a job with a struggling radio station, and a chance on the rest of it. Although the stranger is gone, and all she knows about him is that his name is Martin, and that he lost a tiny golden ski—which she found.

Chapter Five Date With Jordan

EILEEN stood up and piled her music. "Why worry about all that? I'm off to seek my fortune. The Weigands' little chain is the first step, maybe, to a career. And I'm not crazy. I think I can pick up enough secretarial work to carry me, maybe. I think I'm terribly prudent."

But her aunt, interceding in a job that ended in a teacher's pension, shook her head mournfully. Besides, she liked Jordan Estill. Such a sound, responsible, good-tempered boy.

You know—" she offered a final hint—"you can't pick men up and put them down, dear. Men aren't like us. If you won't marry a man, he usually marries some-which she had bought because of the little glassed-in cage at Weigand's radio room; where she would stand and be seen by people coming to visit the station. The tiny flower hat, the freshly washed white suede-cloth gloves. She brushed her brown curls to more glossiness; she even, for some obscure reason, dug up the expensive new foundation cream someone had given her, which made her skin look even more fresh and flawless than it was, tipped her lashes with ten-cent store mascara, her nails with new coral to match her lips.

Jordan was a little late. The pine-smoke pastille, Eileen always lighted after meals to get the faint, good smell of cooking out of the living room, had been curling up on the air, blown through by the sharp June mountain evening wind, for ten minutes before he walked in. When he did he looked at her, for a moment, as if she were not real. He stopped, stared.

Eileen laughed. "Come in, Jordan." She had opened the door to him; she moved a little back as he stood still, eyes focused on her. "What is it? Like my dress?"

"Like... you," he said thickly. "What have you done to yourself, Eileen? You're so—so alive. So—almost incandescent."

She slipped her arm through his and pulled him farther in. "Why, Jordan, them's ten-dol-body else. They get to feeling like being married to you. And the feeling—all the more because you won't—carries them on to somebody else."

Eileen Laughed. "Come In, Jordan"

"Well," said Eileen. "Then they're happy and you're happy." She glanced at her aunt, and transiently wondered how she knew all that. Perhaps there'd been somebody who had felt like marrying Aunt Lou, when she was all wrapped up in her social responsibilities and the freedom of women, and who'd gone on to the next girl. . . . Well, as far as she was concerned, Jordan Estill was welcome. A man wasn't, as Aunt Lou seemed to feel, something like money in the savings bank.

Her hand felt for the little gold ski. She had clipped it carefully to her charm bracelet with pincers. It could not come off. The bracelet had enough other charms, so the ski was not noticeable—every boy she knew had given her a gadget or two. The bracelet was as thick as a lei.

It was nearly the last time she had a chance to talk alone with her aunt. The little apartment was overrun. Everybody was dashing in and out, excited about Eileen's departure, envious, thrilled, or disapproving. And not least, Jordan Estill.

"I want you to have dinner with me at Jerry's, and come dancing," he said without preface on the telephone. His voice didn't sound like itself. It was a little tentative, usually, and Jordan hadn't ever been too fond of dancing. He usually preferred a picnic lunch and a tramp over the hills, driving out to Boulder, perhaps, or beyond to Estes Park and walking in the late daylight, picnicking, driving back.

Eileen would have liked that more, perhaps, if Jordan's society had been as much to her as hers was to him. But with a man who didn't especially interest you, dancing or a movie was better. And Jordan knew it, though he didn't realize that the trouble was not so much that two women tramps lacked excitement for Eileen, but that Jordan Estill did.

Pretty For Jordan

"I'D LOVE IT," she said. There was probably going to be a showdown. A week ago Eileen would have temporized, have gone on letting Jordan have hope. But now she knew that there wasn't any more hope for Jordan. Nevertheless she made herself as lovely as she could for Jordan, automatically. The new pastel crepe, dull-blue, gold-belted, lar words! Why wouldn't I be? Rebound from studying my head off, probably."

He pushed her off a little, put his thin gentle hands on her shoulders. "No. Something new. Is it this radio business, or something I don't know anything about?"

Bemused Young Man
THE nearsighted, watchful eyes behind the eyeglasses searched her face; the pleasant, thin mouth with its parentheses already forming from the habit of professional tension went more tense. "I don't know what you don't know about," Eileen said with a wild little laugh. "We always said you knew more than anybody in any of our other classes."

"You're always so gay. I know I'm a sober sort of person. I—I suppose I seem dull to you," he said suddenly.

"What on earth's the matter, Jordan? Look here, this is no way to take a glamorous girl out to a popular dance den. If you seemed dull to me I'd tell you so. Didn't I just tell you you were terribly clever?"

"Don't fence," he said soberly. "English literature and fooling around the way the rest do are two different things."

She had been fencing, and transparently. He looked at her again. "Ready?"

"Shamelessly ready. Didn't you see my little hat all on, and my gloves—gloves to honor you, my dear sir—all ready to grab?"

"It's crazy, of course, but I like it. The hat, I mean."

"And me I hope—I hope—I hope!"

"Come along," he said.

Miss Lou, cautiously emerging to repossess her living room, saw them going into the hall arm in arm, and gave a sigh of relief. Maybe this radio job was just a stopgap till Eileen and Jordan married. Girls told you so little, nowadays.

They settled in across one of the well-known little tables. Jerry's assistant was just finishing the scattering of some mysterious substance on the dance floor. He was a cheerful, black-jowled Italian who grinned at them in friendship as he passed.

They had both been coming there since their respective early teens. For a quick moment the place seemed warm, homely, friendly, to Eileen, the outside world a strange, untried, doubtful place after all. Then the mood passed.

French Children Appreciate Help

Ambassador's Welcome Reflects Sentiment

The following communication, received from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington by the local secretary, indicates the excellent work accomplished by young Americans who have been working to aid the children of the war-torn countries:

United States Ambassador William S. Leahy, accompanied by American Red Cross officials, was greeted at Toulon, France, by hundreds of French school children waving American flags and shouting "Merci." It was their way of expressing gratitude for the second shipment of milk and clothing sent by the American Red Cross for the children of free France.

During his visit to Toulon, Ambassador Leahy told a correspondent of the New York Times, "After my observations in Marseille yesterday and here in Toulon today, I am satisfied that all the supplies sent to unoccupied France by the American Red Cross are distributed only to children for whom they are intended."

In bringing to a close the display of gratitude for the supplies, a small French boy, in a public address to Ambassador Leahy, stated: "For so much human kindness, we want to thank the children of your great country and to send them the good wishes of all the children of France."

Radio, that modern miracle, should not be installed on autos, a friend insists. Supporting his argument he says he can't see how anyone can drive, keep his eye on the road, think of where he is going, when he aims to get there and how soon he'll be back, and at the same time listen to the outpourings of broadcasters.

Not So Good
The trailer house may be a home. For those who are inclined to roam. But it will never suit the fellow Who likes to putter in the cellar.

Whenever we see someone nervously watching the clock when it is close to quitting time, we're reminded of a certain timid-souled horse which we met up with on our vacation. . . . he would start, go slowly, then stop and the farmer would have trouble getting him started again. Finally, we asked him:

We—Is your horse sick?
Farmer—Not that I know of.
We—Well, is he balky?
Farmer—No, but he is so darned afraid I'll whip him and he won't hear me that he stops every once in a while to listen.

We've just read about a man receiving a safe driving award, although he has not driven an automobile for six years. Maybe that is the safest kind of driving.

Youngster—Remember what I told you to bring me last year—an automobile? Remember what you bring me—a jumping jack and two oranges?
Street Corner Santa Claus (looking aghast)—Well—

Youngster (interrupting)—Well, you do that to me this Christmas and you'll get a crack in the jaw.

Everyone makes a mistake now and then, but why pick out a grade crossing for a background.

Him—Didn't the kiss I just gave you, make you long for another?
Her—Yes, but he is away on a business trip and won't be home until next week.

A sensible girl is not so sensible as she looks, because a sensible girl has more sense than to look sensible.

John—I haven't spoken to my wife in three years.
Friend—Why?
John—Because she hasn't given me a chance.

Junior—Daddy, what is an adult?
Daddy—An adult is a person who has stopped growing at both ends and started growing in the middle.

Virginia Woolf Is Called Suicide by English Coroner

British Novelist's Body Is Recovered From River Near Her House at Lewes, Sussex

London, April 19 (AP)—Dr. E. F. Hoare, coroner at New Haven, Sussex, gave a verdict of suicide today in the drowning of Mrs. Virginia Woolf, British novelist who was twice bombed from her home. Her body was recovered last night from the River Ouse near her week-end house at Lewes.

The coroner read a note which Mrs. Woolf left for her husband, Leonard.

"I have a feeling I shall go mad," the note said. "I cannot go on any longer in these terrible times. I hear voices and cannot concentrate on my work. I have fought against it but cannot fight any longer. I owe all my happiness to you but cannot go on and spoil your life."

Her husband testified she was depressed for a considerable time. He found her walking stick on the river bank.

Mrs. Woolf, who was 59, vanished March 28. Four days later her husband told the press association she was "presumed to be dead."

Bituminous Coal Mining Suspension Felt by Industry

The suspension of bituminous coal mining in the Appalachian field now under way for some three weeks is being increasingly felt by industry, while members of the O. P. M. in Washington are quoted as saying that it constitutes an immediate threat to the defense program.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel already has banked five blast furnaces and has ordered six more shut down within the next few days, due to a shortage of coke as a result of the strike. Most railroads have a large supply of coal on hand, but two roads in New England may have to curtail operations next month unless mining is resumed within a week. The electric power utilities laid in heavy stocks in winter and on March 1 had a supply sufficient for 71 days. Northern coal operators agreed on a $7 a day basic wage rate, but Southern operators withdrew from the conference when a wage differential in their favor was refused.

General Motors has discarded all plans for new models for 1943 season. Instead the 1942 models will be carried over, releasing capacity of machine tool makers for defense needs.

A presumed greatly reduced net earnings for steel industry and the imminence of a heavy tax program, with cut in auto production and unfavorable war news sent stocks down Friday. Leading issues lost one to more than two points, 176 issues made new lows for 1941 and the Dow-Jones averages had substantial losses, utilities making a new low for the year.

The industrial average dropped 1.88 points, to close at 116.28, rails were off 52 point for the day, to 27.75 and utilities lost .33, closing at 18.12. Volume was up slightly, to 485,280 shares and heaviest trading and lowest prices were during the last two hours, when 270,000 shares changed hands.

Commodities dropped on a wide front. Wheat dropped sharply, one to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Cotton dropped three to four points.

Blossoms May Beat Date of Bud Festival

The recent warm weather and sunshine—at least two days were recorded as record breakers for the dates in April—is bringing foliage and buds forward at a rapid rate. While the general effect is fine, providing later freezing temperatures are not encountered, the situation is not so pleasing to those who are working for the success of the Hudson Valley Apple Blossom Festival, and we hope for a mass of blossoms on the apple trees on May 10.

At the Farm Bureau office this morning Cyril G. Small, assistant agent, said that already he had received report from one apple grower that Courtland buds in his orchard were beginning to show pink. "Pray for colder weather," said Mr. Small, "unless you want to see the apple blossoms come and go before the festival date, three weeks from today." He added that he would not be surprised to see them generally in blossom if the present warm weather continued for a week.

Valley Drum Corps And Band Contest Plans Completed

Plans for drum corps and band competition in connection with the Hudson Valley Apple Blossom Festival have been completed, according to Paul Zucca, chairman of the drum corps and band committee.

The Saugerties Drum Corps will sponsor the competition and will act as host. In this connection, invitations have been sent to all member clubs in the region to attend and participate in the parade and competition in Kingston on Saturday, May 10.

This competition is sanctioned by the Hudson Valley Drum Corps Association, State of New York. Plans have been made for participation in the festival parade of all competing drum corps prior to the competition.

The Hudson Valley Drum Corps Association offers a number of trophies and other prizes for winners in competition in the various classes as well as for drum majors, girls' corps and color guards. The Apple Blossom Committee is offering $200 in cash prizes.

The Festival Drum Corps and Band Committee has invited 40 high school bands to participate in the parade and hold a competition of their own. For this event the committee has set up prizes in the amount of $200. Competing bands will be divided into two classes. Class "A" will comprise bands from high schools having a student enrollment of over 500, while Class "B" will be made up of bands from schools of less than 500 student enrollment. The prizes will be as follows in each class: First, $50; second, $25; third, $15; fourth, $10.

They Get Wooden Shoes

Washington, April 19 (AP)—Wooden shoes are replacing leather-soled shoes in German-occupied Norway as a result of a leather shortage, according to authoritative information received in diplomatic quarters here. The wooden shoes, it was reported, are only one indication of a growing list of inconveniences, hardships and prohibitions which beset the Norwegians under Nazi domination. Other aspects of life in Norway today as reported in diplomatic quarters include: Tooth paste is sold only to customers who return old tubes, because of the shortage of Aluminum tube metal. Experiments with paper and other substitutes have proved unsuccessful. Processed fish oil has been substituted for olive and other vegetable oils, with the claim that it costs only half and has equal nutritional value.

Cleanup Week to Begin

Cleanup Week starts Monday in Kingston, and Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works said this morning that he planned to place extra crews of men and trucks at work that week to take care of the vast amount of rubbish and debris that it was expected to be picked up in the city. Only debris and rubbish will be collected. Those who desire the city trucks to drive into the yards to pick up rubbish should call 2114, and the requests will be taken care of as received. Householders who plan to place rubbish and debris on the curb in front of their homes should be sure to see that it is placed in containers so that it can be easily handled.

Editors Converge Upon Manhattan

Yearly Associated Press, 54th A.N.P.A. Meetings to Be Held Next Week

New York, April 19 (AP)—Newspaper publishers, editors and executives from all parts of the nation converge on New York this week-end for the annual meeting of the Associated Press and the 54th convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

James H. Jones, secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator, will address the AP's annual luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on Monday. As publisher of the Houston Chronicle, Jones is a member of the news-gathering organization.

The A.N.P.A. meeting will start Tuesday and continue through Thursday.

Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, in his annual report to the directors, placed overseas achievements, both in news and in pictures 'at the forefront of the year's efforts.'

Discussing the unprecedented problems of covering wars on three continents, Cooper declared "war reporting is no longer a prize for swiftest chair journalists," and said AP staff men "were constantly in the presence of death and desolation, themselves exposed many times to greater peril and hardship than combatant armies."

"The story of what they did and what they endured deserves to live as long as there are newspapers," he said.

"I tribute which the membership could possibly pay them would balance the sum of devoted and courageous conduct of these soldiers of the Associated Press."

The general manager said that no previous year in the history of news-gathering and news photo coverage had imposed more difficult responsibilities on editors, reporters and photographers.

"Two special phases of the domestic news effort were of continuing concern to the management," Cooper reported. "One was the development of American diplomatic and defense policies, the other was the national political campaign."

"Having in mind the serious consequence which might result from any popular misconception of the true state of national preparedness, executives and staff sought studiously for realistic reporting of every development...."

The political campaign, despite its unusual aspects and the intense antagonisms which made it historic, was reported so objectively that criticism was almost non-existent, even from the most partisan sources. To this result the entire domestic staff contributed."

Detroit Draft Board Says Hank Greenberg Will Go by May 7

Giants Hold Lead By Whipping Phils; Cubs Stop Redbirds

Lewis and Travis of Nats Due to Be Drafted Soon; Pirates Sink Reds and Bucky Walters, 4-1

(By The Associated Press)

Just as intended, the army draft is striking both the mighty and the meek of baseball.

A selective service board in Detroit ended the confusion surrounding the status of big Hank Greenberg yesterday, and knocked the Tigers out of the American League pennant picture, by classifying him definitely 1-A and announcing he would be inducted into the army about May 7.

Another draft board disclosed yesterday that Cecil Travis, star shortstop of the Washington Senators, had been classified 1-A and probably would be called next month at about the time Third Baseman Buddy Lewis of the same team is to be inducted. Earlier this week outfielder Joe Mauer of the Phillies was informed he would be summoned. The same team already has given up Hugh Mulachy.

The importance of these blows to the respective clubs cannot be overestimated. The Senators already are in the American League cellar and the loss of the only two really big league infielders they have means that the club may never get off the bottom.

The Phillies have lost three straight games and they'll be in the National League dungeon to stay just as soon as the Cincinnati Reds move out.

Both clubs probably would have finished there anyway. But Greenberg's going means a drastic change in position for Detroit, possibly a drop into the second division. Hank, highest salaried player in baseball, is believed to earn about $2,000 a week.

In the meantime the races in the two leagues are muddled in more than the usual early season turmoil.

In the National League the undefeated New York Giants are on top and the World Champions Reds are on the bottom without a single victory.

Red Sox in Front

The Red Sox are up-beat leaders of the American League while five clubs are tied for second with an even split of their games to date.

The Reds were routed 4-1 by the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in spite of the fact that Bucky Walters went well for six innings. Tied in the seventh Maury Van Pelt opened with a homer and Vince DiMaggio smacked another with two teammates on base. Max Butcher held Cincinnati to five hits and the only run he allowed was a homer by rookie Dick West.

The St. Louis Cardinals suffered their first defeat when the Chicago Cubs got rough with Clyde Shoun in the seventh inning on three extra base blows, the last a homer by Bill Nicholson, and won 6-4. Old Charley Root went the route and after a shaky start, finished with five scoreless innings.

Ott Gets Grand Slam

The Giants made pea soup of the Phillies 7-2, starting with a five-run third inning when Mel Ott homered with the bases loaded.

Brooklyn's bashful Dodgers, who hadn't won a game previously, had one given to them at Boston, where the Bees blew up with six errors and handed over an 11-6 decision. Principal among Brooklyn's 14 hits was a three-run homer by Rookie Pete Reiser.

The Red Sox stayed unbeaten with a nerve-rattling 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. Lefty Grove held the A's to two hits for two innings, but one of these was a two-run homer by Sam Chapman in the fourth. In the seventh Bob Doerr hit a home run for the Sox to put them in the running and in the ninth he smashed another with a mate aboard to win the game.

Home runs decided Detroit's 4-2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. Each team got six hits. One of Cleveland's was a round-tripper by Ken Keltner. Two of the Tigers were homers by Charley Gehring and Birdie Tebbetts, the latter with one on Al Benton relieved Tommy Bridges on the mound for Detroit with the bases loaded in the ninth and saved the game.

Nats Belt Yankees

Washington's revenge on its opening day defeat by the New York Yankees by shelling lefty Marius Russo for a dozen hits in four frames and won 7-4 in the eight hit hurling on southpaw Ken Chase.

Old Ted Lyons, usually a Sunday specialist, proved he could be just as effective on a week-day by leading the Chicago White Sox to a 6-3 verdict over the St. Louis Browns. He spread nine hits and kept his foe shut out till the seventh.

Hits Four-Run Homer

MEL OTT

The young veteran of the National League, Capt. Mel Ott of the Giants, helped the Polo Grounders to continue their winning streak by slapping a homer with the bases loaded yesterday afternoon against the Philadelphia Phillies. Ott's mighty blast came in the third inning. The Giants went on to win their fourth in a row by 7 to 2. Bob Bowman, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, hurled the opener for the Terrymen.

Kaplan Claims Uncrowned Title In Fight With Zivic

Zivic Admits That He Was Out-Classed in the 10-Rounder: Says He'll Win 15-Round Bout

Boston, April 19 (AP)—Merry Mike Kaplan, clever Boston battler who has lost but two of his 48 ring starts, rated himself as the uncrowned welterweight champion today as a result of his decisive 10-round victory over titlist Fritz Zivic in an overweight match.

While admitting that he was out-classed by Mike before a 9,000 crowd at the Boston Garden last night, Zivic expressed confidence that Kaplan would not be able to strip him of the title he gained from Henry Armstrong.

"Kaplan fought a smart fight and did pile up enough points to win the decision," Zivic said. "But he never would have been able to escape me over the 15 round route and that's the distance it will be when I put up my title."

Jones Manager Raps Director of Recreation Here

April 18, 1941
Kingston Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.

Attention: Sports Editor

Dear Sir:

I may be considered poor sports as a hard loser for writing this letter, but we desire to show you several events leading up to our forfeiting of the Class A basketball championships to the Cadets.

This letter is not directed against the Cadets, but towards the director of the department of recreation, who in our opinion has given us a "raw deal." Perhaps the head of this department can find time to read this letter and try to straighten us out on a few matters. The director of recreation has been sponsoring basketball leagues for quite a few years but this season there was more dictating than directing.

At the end of the first half schedule a meeting was called to decide upon several important matters. It showed very hard that night and only one or two managers appeared. Without a quorum the meeting was conducted. As a result the Cadets, first half champions of the B division, were moved up to the A league with the privilege to play against the winners of this class for the championship.

It seems as if the recreation head could not be bothered with the calling of another meeting to allow the managers to decide on admitting a new team into their league or making a change in the play-off ruling.

Jones Dairy won both halves of the league schedule, but were not considered the champions as they had to play the Cadets because of the new dictated play-off ruling.

The Cadets were beaten by a very decisive margin in the first game, but the losers protested on the grounds that Jones Dairy used an ineligible player. Again the recreation head did not call a meeting to let the managers to allow them to decide on this matter but instead, ruled that Jones Dairy forfeit the game to the losers. The Cadets, however, wanted the game replayed, but the director of recreation would not alter his decision.

This was enough for us, so we decided to give the next game to the Cadets and let them have the "championship."

Incidentally, the final league statistics, published the other day, listed the Cadets with having four of their men among the first 10 high point scorers, of the A division. Can the recreation director account for this, even though the Cadets played half of their games in the B division?

We extend our thanks to you for the "swell" publicity which you gave our team during the past season, and for printing this letter in your paper.

Sincerely,
JONES DAIRY BASKETBALL TEAM
Milton Dubin, Manager.

Elastic Stockings
HERE at last are elastic stockings you won't mind wearing. They are so sheer they look like fine silk hose, and can be worn unnotched.
And the lighter latex yarn gives you cool comfort, yet you get full support, too. And they can be washed frequently without losing their shape. Ask your doctor about Bauer's

RADIO CHART

FOR WEEK ENDING APRIL 26
RADIO CHART LISTENING POST

Alexander MacLachlan
A group of seven women in our neighborhood gathered once a week to listen to a major league baseball broadcast—preferably one which recounts the exploits of the Brooklyn Dodgers.
But failing that, they'd take what they can get.
It is really surprising the enthusiasm these seven rabid listeners to the heart-throbbing daytime serials can work up about a ball game.
They've organized a cheering section to push Medwick to the batting championship, they've got their own selections for the all-star game already picked—and one, to the envy of all the others, has even learned the Bronx cheer.
Their husbands have taken reading the sport pages of the newspaper in the office so that they'll have some idea of what's going on.
For as soon as they leave the paper home it's subject to a scissors' attack as the wives cut clippings to prove a point they couldn't establish at the last meeting.
Next month the girls are making a trip to New York to see their first major league game
—a game they insist, between the Giants and Brooklyn. So if sometime in the middle of May the Giants have a big inning against Brooklyn and six large hood and a Bronx cheer emanate from behind first base the management of the Polo Grounds will know that the girls are on hand.
Look out New York—don't say I didn't warn you.
The triumphal notes coming from the Berlin short-wave broadcasters are intermingled with cries of degradation about England. I had just listened to one of them last week and was switching the dial when I heard the last bit of an English broadcast.
The British announcer was speaking of the reverses in Greece and also referred to the Berlin comments. Digging back into the nineteenth century verse of Rudyard Kipling, he gave the British answer:
"If England was what England seems
And not the England our dreams
But only putty, brass and paint—
How quick we'd drop'er, but she ain't."

Louise Barclay in "Arnold Grimm's Daughter"
The radio forums are having a tough time with the speakers on America's position in the present crisis. Things start out very calmly and rationally, with direct appeals to reason; but more often than not they wind up with someone being called a war-monger and someone else being labelled appeaser.
It seems strange, somehow, to hear our national leaders go into an emotional display for either side—and at the same time urge us listeners to keep our heads.
See you next week.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Henry William Sickler was held this morning from the home of his sister, Mrs. Laura Long, 99 DeWitt street. The Rev. Fred H. Deming of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church conducted the services at the home and imparted the committal services at the grave. Numerous floral offerings were received from his many relatives and friends. The burial took place in Montrepore cemetery.

Mrs. Anna F. Carroll, daughter of the late Peter J. and Anna Hardy Lavelle died Friday at her home in New York city. The family were former residents of Kingston. Surviving is a son, Charles Carroll, and a sister, Mrs. Louise Sahn. A Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, West 125th street. Burial in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city on the arrival of the 2 o'clock West Shore train Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Ottila Schaffrick, wife of the late Jacob Schaffrick and for about 50 years a well known and highly respected resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon following a short illness. She was one of the oldest members of the Trinity Lutheran Church and was active in all its activities through the many acts of kindness during the illness and at the time of the death of wife and mother. Mrs. Louise Hahn, also to the members of Kingston Council No. 124, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, Patriotic Order of America Camp No. 30, and Atharhacton Rebekah Lodge No. 357, for their kind expressions of sympathy. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated their cars for the funeral.

P. S. C. Grants Bid Of Central Hudson To Issue Bonds

Bonds, Due in 1971, Total $13,265,000 and Will Carry 3 Per Cent as First Mortgages

New York, April 19.—The Public Service Commission has authorized the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation to issue $13,265,000 principal amount of 3 per cent first mortgage bonds due in 1971. The proceeds will be used to redeem an equal amount of outstanding 3½ per cent bonds.

The commission also granted the company permission to amend the text of 2,200,000 principal amount of 3 per cent refunding mortgage bonds due in 1970 in order to conform them to the requirements of a fourth supplemental mortgage indenture in connection with the issuance of the new securities. Authorization was granted on recommendation of William T. Wilkinson, commission hearing examiner, who directed the proceeding.

The new bonds will be redeemable at the option of the corporation as a whole or in part prior to maturity at rates varying from 108 per cent of par on March 1, 1942 to 100½ per cent of par up to March 1, 1970. The expense of the issue is limited under the commission's order to $135,000. The order also provides that the premium on the bonds to be refunded in an amount to exceed $713,250, together with all other costs and expenses in connection with the redemption, shall be charged to earned surplus.

Will Be Refunded

Two outstanding issues are to be refunded under the company's new financing. One issue is in the amount of $10,765,000 due in 1965 and will be redeemed on or before June 1, 1941 at 105 per cent of par and accrued interest. The redemption requirement for this issue is $11,303,250. The other issue is in the amount of $2,500,000 due 1967 to be redeemed on June 1, 1941 at 107 per cent of par and accrued interest, necessitating a redemption requirement of $2,675,000.

The company also has outstanding $955,500 in 5 per cent bonds of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. These bonds are due June 1, 1941. Money for this purpose is available in an escrow fund and before the company proceeds with the new financing, it is required under the commission's order to procure the discharge of the underlying mortgage which secures the constituent Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company bonds. The discharge of this mortgage will permit the execution of a fourth supplemental indenture to be issued to Irving Trust Company.

The fourth supplemental indenture tightens the mortgage provisions in a number of respects. Additional bonds under these provisions may be issued in an aggregate face amount not to exceed $3,000,000 for property purchased, constructed, or otherwise acquired prior to January 1, 1941. The issue of such additional bonds, however, is limited not to exceed 75 per cent of the cash cost to the company or the fair value, whichever is less, of property additions acquired subsequent to January 1, 1927 and prior to January 1, 1941 and not exceeding 70 per cent of such cost or value of property additions acquired after December 31, 1939 and prior to January 1, 1941. The provision relating to existing property freezes the amount of additional bonds which may be issued against property as of January 1, 1941 to $3,000,000, whereas this provision to be superseded in the third supplemental indenture permits issuance of $6,285,000 in new bonds.

The commission also directed that so long as any of the new bonds authorized remain outstanding, the company shall set aside out of net income, before payment of dividends, not less than $15,000 per month, to be deposited in a special fund in a responsible banking institution and to be used only for the retirement of mortgage indebtedness or for the construction of new property or for both such purposes.

Governor Approves Bill to Increase Penalties in Illegal Beverage Sales

Albany, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—Governor Lehman approved today legislation sharply increasing penalties for unlicensed manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages.

The new statute raises the maximum fine for violations from $200 to $1,200 and makes first offenders, like others, liable to a one-year maximum imprisonment. First offenders formerly were subject to a six-months jail term.

Proponents of the measure, sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Christopher Lawrence, Westchester county, said the proposal was intended to "remove the last vestige of bootlegging in New York."

Other "liquor" bills approved by the governor, as the number of 1941 laws reached 490, included those which:

Permit licensed dealers to sell and deliver alcoholic beverages to persons outside the state.

Authorize the State Liquor Authority to issue special permits for a single transaction, with a maximum fee of $10, and "one day" permits for sale of beer in quanties exceeding 31 gallons for gatherings to which the general public is not admitted. Meantime the governor signed three measures dealing with New York's defense program, including one making unlawful the refusal by any company working on defense contracts to employ a person because of race, color or creed.

Other new laws add the attorney-general to membership of the state defense council and require licensing, by the state industrial commissioner, of those manufacturing, selling or otherwise handling explosives. State and local police must be notified of any such licenses issued.

The governor also signed bills which:

Set up a program for controlling traffic in wild bird plumage and providing for its elimination within six years, after which the "feather" industry would be restricted to use of plumage from domestic fowl.

Appropriate $75,000 to continue for another year the temporary state commission formulating a long-range state health program.

'France Forever' Group Organizes To Help de Gaulle

Todd and his son, Stephen. The film showed free French forces in England and on active duty in Africa, where they gave much effective help to General Wavell in Libya and Ethiopia and General deGaulle was pictured making an address in which were his famous words:

"Soldiers of France wherever you may be arise!"

Three types of membership were announced and the majority of those present enrolled. These are associate for a subscription of $1, active for $5 and beneficiary $100.

The encouraging response to the group led to a decision among those present to take steps toward forming a Woodstock chapter and it was voted to continue the temporary committee and to call further meetings which will be open to the public.

Among those who attended last night's meeting were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles de la Vergne, Peter Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Milton Wagenfohr, Mrs. Julia Searing Leaycraft, Mr. and Mrs. Martocci, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grazer, Allen Updegraff, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Ives, Captain Moncure, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Isabel Doughty, Henri Cool, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor and Madame Rouellan.

WANT ADS WILL BE IN THE NEWS NEXT WEEK

Throughout the nation, newspapers are celebrating National Want Ad Week, April 20th to 26th. The week is set aside as a time when newspapers can bring before the attention of the public the important part that want ads play in our daily every day life. There are so many interesting things about your newspaper --- and dad wants the sport page, and mother prefers the menu aids, and the children fight for the comics. But everyone finds something interesting, worthwhile or profitable in the want ads. Buying, renting, selling, hiring, etc., the want ads help make life easier and better.

SPECIAL FOR WANT AD WEEK

Any want ad placed next week will be run SIX DAYS FOR THE PRICE OF THREE. It's double value for your money... and double insurance that you'll get results from your ad. Whatever you need or want, advertise in the want ads next week.
